

slow the car down.

My Prediction: (remember three variables must be discussed!)

I predict if the aerodynamics of the car are like a bullet than the speed of the car will increase and reduce the air resistance.

I predict if we blow more air into the balloon the cars speed will increase because more air's pressure.

I predict if it has a lesser mass that it will have a greater momentum which will make it have a greater distance.